WIFE-STABBER CRASH SUICIDE

STABS WIFE, KILLS HIMSELF IN CRASH

Believing he had slashed his wife to death in their home, Lester P. Nicholson of Billerica fled the house today in his underwear, roared away in his sedan—and deliberately committed suicide by crashing into a truck in Burlington.

In full view of police who were investigating an earlier accident on route 3, the Lowell pike, Nicholson was hurtled through the windshield and nearly decapitated.

So terrific was the force of the deliberate collision, with Nicholson speeding at 70 miles an hour, that the 10-ton, six-wheeled gasoline tank truck his car hit was moved back 60 feet along the highway and more than 10 feeet off the road.

STABBED IN NOISY ROW

Meanwhile, at the Nicholson home in Cardington avenue, the Pinehurst section of Billerica, a doctor worked frantically over the slashed wife, member of a Boston printing firm.

Mrs. Gertrude Nicholson, the same age as her husband, 35, and member of the firm of Cecil H. Wrightson, Inc., 74 India street, where she is secretary-clerk, had been slashed and stabbed about the head, neck and abdomen.

There had been a noisy quarrel in the Nicholson home, according to a neighbor, Mrs. Anthony Grace, who called police and Dr. Irving Landeau of Billerica.

A Swedish hunting knife with a long blade that springs from its handle when a button is pressed lay on the floor.

WIFE MAY RECOVER

Dr. Landeau gave Mrs. Nicholson first aid, and then police rushed her to St. John's Hospital, Lowell, where

Two of her brothers and four of her neighbors volunteered their blood today at St. John's Hospital, Lowell, for Mrs. Gertrude Nicholson, stabbing victim. Standing by at the hospital in the event of transfusion should be necessary were the brothers, Frank and Herbert Mallard, as well as Thomas Hastings, Jr., Charles Hastings, Arthur Scillings and Joseph Newman, all of the Pinehurst section of Billerica.

De Valera Calls Off U. S. Trip in Crisis Over Conscription

DUBLIN, April 27 (INS)—Eamon de Valera, prime minister of Eire, announced to the Dail Eirean today that he had cancelled his projected visit to the United States "in view of yesterday's grave event."

This was a reference to announcement by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in the House of Commons introducing compulsory military service.

De Valera made arrangements as long ago as last December to visit the New York World's Fair soon after its opening, and also to confer with President Roosevelt.

Keen disappointment over President De Valera's cancellation of his American visit was expressed today by officials at Harvard University and Boston College.

At Harvard, President James B. Conrant and members of the Harvard Board of Overseers had planned to honor De Valera at a dinner and the Harvard president was to escort him on a tour of the university.

Rev. William J. McGarry, S. J., president of Boston College, expressed regrets that the Irish leader would be unable to receive an honorary degree from the college.

Other affairs arranged for De Valera included a breakfast by Mayor Tobin, a state luncheon by Governor Saltonstall, a luncheon by the Boston Chamber of Commerce, mass meeting and reception in Boston Garden and also a breakfast at Boston City Club, to be attended by Boston newspaper editors and publishers.

His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell was to have received the visitor in his Lake street residence.

CHAMBERLAIN IN DRAFT PLEA HITS AT LLOYD GEORGE

LONDON, April 27 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain warned the Labor opposition in Commons today against forcing a general election on conscription as he opened the debate on the emergency conscription bill he announced yesterday.

"I foresee that matters might be pushed to such an extremity that this government would not have any other choice than to order an election," he said amid Laborite cheers and counter-cheers from the government benches.

"But surely," he added, "a very heavy responsibility would rest upon those who force such a conclusion at this time.

"An election would leave the country in a state of confusion and uncertainty, postpone for what might be vital weeks measures which the government thought necessary, check the output of munitions vital to us at this time and distract the attention of those who are responsible for government departments."

BODY OF LESTER P. NICHOLSON LIES NEAR WRECKAGE OF CAR AFTER 70 M.P.H. SUICIDE CRASH IN BURLINGTON

John and Elaine Part for Good; Divorce Looms

By GEORGE HOLLAND

Take it from me, John and Elaine Barrymore are through—this time.

She will leave the cast of "My Dear Children," her first stage play with her famous husband, in St. Louis Saturday night, and will go to New York.

What happens after that is, for the moment, in the laps of the gods.

It is highly improbable that, as in the past, there will be a reconciliation.

And let it be said now, once and for all, that their reasons for breaking up America's most spectacular romance are entirely personal, and have nothing whatsoever to do with their appearance on the stage together.

It cannot be denied, however, that the final blowoff resulted from that stage appearance together—the overt act, as it were.

PARTING SEEMS FINAL

I talked to both last night. Elaine was reticent. John wasn't quite so reticent, but neither would go into detail as to what happened. The story had to be gotten from another source entirely, and it is true.

John did admit that they have "failed to hit it off," and implied that their parting is final. To give an idea of just how reticent both of them are, I'll let you eavesdrop on our conversations—but that will come later.

First, lets have the story of the explosion.

They haven't been very happy together for the last year. He's 57, exacting and a little inclined to be crochety at times.

She's 21, very ambitious and was deeply in love with him. To add to their difficulties, he was very, very jealous of her.

The continued presence of her mother, Mrs. Fannie Jacobs, didn't help matters, but on that point Elaine was insistent.

They planned their stage adventure as a new honeymoon, a new lease on romance for both, a chance for him to get back to his first love, the legitimate theater, and a chance for her to show New York

JOHN BARRYMORE AND ELAINE BARRIE
She Quits His Play—Paths Lead to Divorce Court

Non-Stop Slap Told Court by Suing Wife

MRS. FREDA SCHLOSBERG
"Slapped for Half Hour"

Something of an endurance record for wife slapping was revealed in Suffolk divorce court today by a 23-year-old Dorchester wife.

Mrs. Frieda Schlosberg of Talbot avenue, Dorchester, clocked her husband in a full 30 minutes of non-stop slapping.

She told Judge John V. Mahoney that the first time she suffered a slapping from her husband was when she couldn't account for 25 cents out of a sum of money he had given her.

As another instance she called cruelty, Mrs. Schlosberg testified that her husband had once tried to make her believe he had committed suicide.

After her mother, Mrs. Molly Siegal, testified concerning injuries suffered by the daughter in other beatings, Judge Mahoney announced he would have the testimony in the case investigated, and until that time would withhold his decision.

Roosevelt Arrives At Hyde Park Home

HYDE PARK, N. Y., April 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt arrived at his "first" home here on the Hudson today for a week's stay.

His special train from Washington reached Highland at 8:30 a. m. and the President motored here.

WIDOW WANTED 'AIR VOICE' IDOL BURIED NEAR HERSELF

Another episode was unfolded today in the story of the unrequited love of Mrs. Agnes Mae Watson of Bearse avenue, Dorchester, crippled and partly blind widow, for a young and handsome radio announcer.

According to testimony in Suffolk Probate Court, her love was so fervent that she even expressed a wish that the announcer some day be buried in a grave next to her own.

But all her attentions brought only a $2.50 plant from Bill A'Connell of the Yankee Network, sent collect, and a telegram which she kept under her pillow, it was testified in the contest of Mrs. Watson's will being heard by Judge John V. Mahoney.

Miss Barbara P. Vanderslice of Sanbornville, N. H., a cousin, is contesting the will. Mrs. Stanley A. Bradford, wife of the elderly woman's stepson, told the court of the invalid's alleged infatuation.

Miss Vanderslice, only heir-at-law of Mrs. Watson, who was cut off without a cent, charges that the widow was of unsound mind when she made the will in June of 1936. A motion for jury issues was denied a short time ago.

Mrs. Bradford told of how Mrs. Watson's health began to fail from 1933 to 1936, and said she took charge of the widow's affairs, did her cooking for her, drove her about in a car and even bathed her.

Bill O'Connell

Called to the stand by Atty. Northrup, O'Connell testified he first heard of Mrs. Watson three or four years ago when he received an Easter card from her. Later he said he received several Easter and Christmas cards from the widow, and gifts such as ties, stockings, rosary beads and once a birthday cake.

FALL KILLS WPA WORKER

Injured in a 25-foot fall from the Boylston street bridge to the Boston and Albany right of way, Gratian Fitzgerald, of Buttonwood street, a WPA ironworker, died at City Hospital today.

His Ship Crashes Son's

GLOUCESTER, April 27 (AP)—Two fishing vessels, one skippered by a father and the other by his son, collided in the fog near Eastern Point Light today and one, the Agnes and Myrnie, was damaged so badly she had to be beached.

Coast guards took the crew of four from the damaged 30-ton oil screw boat while the other vessel, the Mary A, made its way back to port under her own power. Skipper of the Agnes and Myrnie was Axel Weiderman, son of the captain of the Mary A.

Both vessels had been on their way to the fishing grounds. No one was injured.

It Costs Debbie $50 to Speed

REINETTE PLIMPTON
She Was Wrong About a Friend

Speeding at an alleged 70 miles an hour cost Reinette Plimpton, 22-year-old Brookline post-debutante, $50 today in Brookline court.

The fine was imposed by Judge Daniel A. Rollins on a charge of driving so as to endanger.

Reinette found she had only $10 in her purse, and so, society or no society, she was forced to sit in the probation office until relatives arrived with the rest of the ante.

It was testified by Brookline Patrolmen Joseph Cavanaugh and Peter Gould that they were unable to catch her in a two and a half mile chase from St. Mary's street to Cleveland Circle, during which she ran through several traffic lights.

The society girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Barnet Plimpton of Fisher avenue, Brookline, testified she was in a hurry to get to a dinner in Newton.

She admitted she heard a siren, but said she thought friends were chasing her.

But she was wrong.

DR. PRESCOTT TO SPEAK

Dr. Daniel A. Prescott will address the annual meeting of the New England Association of College Teachers at Tufts College tomorrow at 2:30 p. m.

PARDON PROBE NEAR AS CRITICS ASSAIL LYMAN

Following close on State Commissioner of Correction Arthur T. Lyman's blast at the Massachusetts penal system, the Senate ways and means committee today reported unanimously in favor of a resolution to appropriate $2000 for an investigation of pardon conditions in Massachusetts.

Senate President Joseph R. Cotton declared he would accept a motion to suspend the rules so that the resolution could be given all required readings today. Governor Saltonstall said he would sign the bill as soon as it reaches his desk.

Meanwhile, the Lyman bombshell, while it was endorsed by some members of the Legislature, was the target of indignant broadsides from three sources hit by the commissioner's dramatic charges of political corruption in the penal system.

Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, veteran Democrat who sponsored a petition for an investigation of pardons and paroles, said Lyman had "performed a distinct public service in calling the attention of the public to the seriousness of the situation in this state."

His statement came as Mayor Tobin was demanding concrete evidence to support Lyman's charges that liquor, drugs and soft jobs could be purchased by Deer Island inmates.

MULCAHY REPLIES

Major George F. A. Mulcahy, master of Deer Island, denied the charges, branding them "as ridiculous as the charge that $200,000 is wasted annually on food at the island, when actually the entire food allowance is only $85,000."

"If the liquor and dope charges were true, all the local drunks and drug addicts would be at the island in nice comfortable quarters, instead of barely existing uptown," Major Mulcahy said.

Chairman Elbert M. Crocket of the Worcester County Commissioners, whose probe of the Worcester County jail fire came into range of Lyman's blasts, asserted that the inquiry was not making any attempt to withhold the facts in the tragedy from the public, as charged by the state commissioner.

SURPRISE TO TOBIN

"If Commissioner Lyman has a different story on the causes of the fire, that is no fault of the officials conducting the inquiry," said Crocket tartly.

Lyman's charge that three inmates died locked in their cells has been brought out again and again since the holocaust, he added.

Crocket expressed confidence that Francis Cassidy, Democratic member of an otherwise Republican board, would join with him in denying Lyman's charges that the probe was being made a "political football" by a Republican board and a Democratic sheriff.

Commenting that the charges are "serious, if substantiated," Mayor Tobin said he had been assured by acting City Corrections Commissioner John J. Shields that such conditions had never been brought to his attention.

"Commissioner Lyman's statement came as a complete surprise to me, and Acting Commissioner Shields has assured me that he is unaware that liquor or drugs can be procured at Deer Island," declared the mayor.

The mayor asserted that any evidence against any official at the institution would result in immediate dismissal.

MAKES SWEEPING CHARGES

Commissioner Lyman's specific charges against Deer Island administration and the Worcester county probe were part of a sweeping condemnation of the Massachusetts penal system he made last night before the American Unitarian Association.

Lyman was sent an invitation to appear next Tuesday at the next regular meeting of the City Council to discuss his indictment of penal conditions.

"Failure of Lyman to appear could be construed in only one way—that there is no foundation for the charges," declared City Councilor Philip A. Fish, who wrote the letter asking Lyman to appear in person.

Inquest Set on Fatal Worcester Jail Fire

WORCESTER, April 27 (AP)—An inquest into the fire last Thursday night at Worcester County jail in which three prisoners lost their lives, will be conducted in central district court, May 10, at 9 a. m. in an effort to determine if "criminal negligence was responsible" for the deaths.

District Judge Frank L. Riley has asked that Medical Examiner John C. Ward report on his findings and that any others who investigated be present so that the court might fix responsibility in the case.

Lawyer Ires Woman License Board Head

A lawyer's tirade against drinking and gambling women drew a sharp retort from Miss Mary Driscoll, chairman of the Boston Licensing Board, today.

Attorney John R. McVey, who appeared before the board seeking permission to have a client's tavern moved, had been speaking against women patronizing drinking establishments when he launched suddenly into gambling evils.

"Women are inveterate beano players," he said. "They like to play the horses, but only when some man stakes them to a betting ticket."

"I guess this is still a man's world, women get blamed for everything," rejoined Chairman Driscoll.

McVey, representing Joseph A. DiBello, who operates a tavern in Albany street, East Boston, and wants to move to Summer street, told the board the tavern was the best kind of a drinking establishment because it catered to men only.

His petition was taken under advisement.

Judge Manton Enters Not Guilty Plea

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—Former U. S. Circuit Judge Martin T. Manton pleaded innocent today to two conspiracy indictments—the latest in a series accusing him of judicial corruption—and with his head held stiffly erect told the court:

"I have one request, and that is for a speedy trial."

Three of his co-defendants also pleaded innocent.

Link Ring In 'Hit-Run' Murders

PHILADELPHIA, April 27 (AP)—A possibility that Philadelphia's insurance-murder ring used more violent methods than poison came to light today with arrest of a widow whose husband was killed by a "hit-run" motorist.

Detectives charged he was run over deliberately after being slugged with a lead pipe.

They charged Mrs. Marie Wolosyn, 41, with homicide in the death of her husband in January, 1936. Police had listed his death as an unsolved hit-run case, but they now contend he was murdered.

COLLECTED $10,600

William Connelly, chief of Philadelphia county detectives, said the widow collected $10,600 insurance on Wolosyn's life.

Although the usual method of the ring or its "customers" was to poison victims slowly, investigators indicated other means were discussed.

George Neumeyer, secret service agent, has testified two men accused as ringleaders proposed braining an intended victim with a sandbag.

At the recent trial of Herman Petrillo, convicted of first degree murder and facing the electric chair, Neumeyer testified Petrillo had told him he could earn $500 by "bumping a guy off."

BARED DEATH PLOTS

Neumeyer, who stumbled on the poison plot while investigating counterfeiting, said Petrillo suggested various ways of killing Ferdinand Alfonsi, 38, a WPA worker. He mentioned running over Alfonsi with an automobile, drowning him, or hitting him on the head with a sandbag.

Petrillo confided later, the investigator testified, that he gave Alfonsi "enough poison to kill six men."

"He's in the hospital and the fools think he has pneumonia," Neumeyer quoted Petrillo.

Robb Guilty In Stock Fraud

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—Ralph Robb, a Boston lawyer, one of six men charged with grand larceny in the alleged looting of seven investment trusts of about $10,000,000, pleaded guilty today as the trial opened.

The other defendants are George H. Clayton, a broker; Vincent E. Ferretti, a lawyer; Thomas W. Morris and S. Leo Solomont, both attorneys, of Boston, and Philip A. Frear, a Washington, D. C., broker.

THEY SAW MURDER TRIAL--STANDING ROOM ONLY

SPECTATORS ALL—Emotions play across the faces of women spectators at Norwalk, O., trial of Harold Hastings for the hit-run murder of Carl Schlett. Courtroom wasn't big enough for all the women who tried to listen in to the expected story of a clandestine romance between Hastings and Schlett's wife, Coletta.

HELEN DALE'S SISTER GLAD JURORS ACQUITTED KNOX

MARJORIE DARRAGH
'I Believe Him'

The love of George T. Knox for the late Helen Darragh Dale, the girl whose death brought him ordeal and trial on the charge of murder, never was doubted by Miss Marjorie Darragh, pretty young sister of the victim, she revealed today.

Through all the four weeks the ex-state trooper, Knox, stood trial, her faith and confidence remained unshaken. She was certain he had loved her sister, and that he was telling the truth concerning the manner the 35-year-old Charlestown divorcee met death in his apartment two years ago.

"I believed in him always, and I am so glad the jury believed him, too," she declared.

GEORGE KNOX
Wants Job Now

"I wish him the best of luck and hope he gets a new start in life. He was made to suffer greatly."

Miss Darragh made it plain that she was giving voice to these sentiments simply as a friend of Knox.

STILL CALL HIM FRIEND

"Of course I was pleased to hear George had been acquitted of the charge of killing my sister," she continued. "I never believed him guilty. I have known him a long time.

"I was with my sister when she first met George. I know he thought the world of her.

"My other sister, as well as myself, want him to feel that we still look upon him as a friend.

"Poor Helen is gone. We never can bring her back. I hope it is all over now."

Knox, resting at the Leicester home of his father, who was among the first to telephone his congratulations, expressed himself as grateful for freedom and with no animosity toward his prosecutors.

During the strain of the ordeal, which placed him in jeopardy of his life, he lost 20 pounds.

"I told the truth from the very start of the case—and nothing but the truth," Knox asserted.

Knox said his first concern after a couple of weeks' rest will be to find a job.

Knox, describing his own reactions to the long ordeal which was climaxed by his acquittal, admitted "I had been a strain on him.

"It is awfully hard to describe how it feels in that dock, day after day with your life at stake," he said. "I've lost nearly 20 pounds since the trial started, and most of it in court. And it was no fun to be cooped up in jail."

Knox spent six months in jail.

SISTER TOLD TRUTH

"During the trial what made me feel the worst was when Marjorie Darragh, Helen Dale's sister, testified. When I was told she was coming into court I told my counsel I did not want her to come, but she was insistent.

"I am convinced she wanted to say more than she did say. Her presence in the courtroom was entirely unsolicited by myself or lawyer. She thought it was her duty. I've been on good terms with Helen's family ever since the shooting."

If Mrs. Dale's dying words had been admitted as evidence in a court of law, it was pointed out by Atty. McGrail, the state would have been saved the $22,000 cost of Knox's trial. For Mrs. Dale's last words were:

"George Knox was asleep when the shot was fired."

But the statement of Mrs. Dale to police on her deathbed, was not admissible, because at the time she gave the statement she had not been told she was dying.

NO HARD FEELING

Atty. McGrail had sought to introduce this statement, as the defense's last and most dramatic move. But the jury was not allowed to hear the dead divorcee's exoneration of Knox.

Knox himself says he has no hard feeling toward any who assisted in the prosecution. Having been a policeman himself, he says, he understands the obligation which drove officials to prosecute him. He is not embittered, he says, by events which held him prisoner in the Charles street jail for six months and which put him in peril of his life.

"The government was forced to prosecute, and it did so," Knox said. "I don't blame the government and I hold no ill-feeling toward anyone concerned.

"But I'm glad it's over. I'm glad to be free. I hope I can make my freedom count for something in my life."

Jew, German Swap Berlin, U. S. Homes

DUNNELLEN, N. J., April 27 (INS)—An international barter brought happiness today to its principals—a German family anxious to return to its homeland and a Jewish refugee, who fled Naziland and left his property behind.

As a result of the barter, carried out through intermediaries, Karl Schurr, 58, an iceman who said he found it difficult to make a living in America, will return to Germany with his wife and daughter to occupy a three-room house with a big yard and 50 trees in Stuttgart. In return, Rudolph Stoessel, a refugee attorney to whom the Stuttgart property belonged, will move into Schurr's five-room house with garage in Dunnellen.

Find Missing Woman Dead in Hospital

WORCESTER, April 27—Mrs. Mary F. Marsh, 85, missing from Worcester State Hospital since last August, was found dead today in the hospital, wedged in a shaft.

Mrs. Marsh was admitted to the hospital on August 26. That same day, Dr. William A. Byron, hospital superintendent, said she attempted to stab herself. Four days later she disappeared.

NO MORE will 10-year-old Shirley Boothroyd of Worcester play with her dolls. Gun, inset, snuffed out her life. Doll wears cap of Shirley's father, thought to have shot her and mother and taken own life.

BLAME OLD INJURY FOR TRIPLE TRAGEDY

WORCESTER, April 27—Investigators today traced back two years in the life of Patrolman Titus Boothroyd to learn the cause for the double slaying and suicide which wiped out the once happy family of husband, wife and their 10-year-old daughter, Shirley.

It was in the summer of 1937 that the Worcester policeman and his wife were on an excursion to the American Legion convention in New York.

Their holiday was ended in a bus crash and in serious injuries to the policeman-veteran.

To the resultant brain disease, they linked the triple tragedy.

Detective Capt. John J. Kalagher first suggested that Patrolman Boothroyd apparently killed his wife, Mary A., 38, and his daughter in a temporary fit of insanity before committing suicide.

The policeman's superior officer, Lieut. Thomas E. Long of Station 3, said that Patrolman Boothroyd had an excellent service record in his 10 years on the force, but that he had often been ill and depressed.

Reconstruction of the crime today revealed that mother and daughter had died about 10 or 11 o'clock Tuesday night and that Boothroyd brooded over his deed almost 24 hours before he turned his service revolver on himself.

Brakeman Saves Boy Dangling on Freight

Death rode very close today to four-year-old Walter E. Messenger of Waltham—but alertness of a Boston & Maine Railroad brakeman saved the boy at the end of his perilous ride through the Newton street trainyards.

The boy, who lives in Yetten terrace, was climbing the ladder on a freight car when a switching engine hooked on to the train and began drawing the cars away.

Walter lost his balance. One foot caught in the rungs and he hung head down as the train rolled along. His plight left him in imminent danger of falling beneath the wheels.

From the tail of the freight, Brakeman Ernest Duprey glanced along the cars and saw the boy.

Leaping to the ground, Duprey raced back, swung the boy upright and freed his foot.

Too dazed even to cry, Walter was taken to Waltham Hospital, where he was treated for head lacerations.

He was held for further observations.

Man Freed After Suicide Report

Paul M. Logan of Chicago, who gave himself up to Boston police in the belief that he was wanted for questioning in the death of Mrs. Francis Klopfhe of Chicago, was released.

In a wire to Boston, police of Chicago said there was no doubt the woman was a suicide by poison.

ROYALTY SHIP SINKS PILOT BOAT

NEW YORK, April 27 (INS)—The pilot boat Sandy Hook was rammed and sunk today in fog-bound Ambrose channel by the Norwegian-American liner Oslofjord, bearing Crown Prince Olav and Crown Princess Martha on their first visit to the United States.

The pilot boat's crew of 16 and nine pilots were rescued and taken aboard the 18,000-ton Oslofjord, which proceeded slowly toward her Brooklyn pier. No one was hurt.

The accident marred a gala New York reception for the Crown Prince and Crown Princess, first royal visitors to the World's Fair.

It occurred while the Oslofjord, which is steered entirely by push buttons instead of the conventional wheel, was signalling for a pilot at the entrance of the channel.

Thick fog obscured vision and suddenly the Oslofjord crashed into the pilot boat's side. The Oslofjord sheered off, dropped anchor and lowered two lifeboats.

Hitler Sees U. S. Girl Dance; Rests for Talk

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, April 27—Acidly sharp rather than war-like and devoid of major surprises was the manner in which Adolf Hitler's Reichstag speech was forecast today as the chancellor prepared to deliver his eagerly-awaited reply to President Roosevelt's appeal for a quarter-century of "guaranteed peace."

Hitler has finished the revision of his address, it was said, but it remains subject to last-minute alterations. Whether he will join the government-controlled Nazi press in ridiculing British conscription could not be determined.

Hitler was reported to have spent last evening witnessing a revue called "The Midnight Melody," starring the American dancer, Miriam Verne of Pittsburgh, one of the Fuehrer's favorite entertainers.

SEES OLD BERLIN

Hitler sat through the entire show, in its 250th performance, and then went to the Artists' Club to see a movie entitled, "Berlin 100 years ago."

Neither he nor any of the men in his entourage wore uniforms. They appeared in tuxedos.

In addition to his Reichstag speech, Hitler will address the annual May day assembly in the Lustgarten on Monday. He may use this opportunity to retort to Mr. Roosevelt should the President deal with European affairs in his speech opening the New York World's Fair on Sunday.

Meanwhile, so far as the official German viewpoint is concerned, even the extremity of British conscription failed to shake Berlin's conviction that Europe's war remains confined to verbal barrages and diplomatic maneuvers.

'MARCH OF PEACE'

Der Angriff, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbel's newspaper, sounded the keynote of official German reaction thus:

"British conscription will not prevent us from continuing on the road to peace, a path of peace and justice along which we march arm in arm with Italy.

"The majority of smaller nations have already expressed their conviction that the peace path is far preferable to the war path which the British have charted."

Diplomatic Correspondence, official organ of the German foreign office, reiterated that Germany is not an aggressor nation but one consecrated to the task of defense. The Reich has no aims toward a European hegemony, the publication asserted.

MARSHALL NAMED AS ARMY HEAD

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt today selected Brigadier General George C. Marshall, slender, 58-year-old Pennsylvania, to the army's highest post during its greatest peacetime expansion.

Marshall will succeed Malin Craig in August as chief of staff. He will rank among the youngest ever to attain the post. Craig is nearing 64.

His selection meant that Mr. Roosevelt passed over several officers Marshall's senior in service. Marshall entered the army in 1902 upon graduation from Virginia Military Institute.

For the next four years, ranking as a full general, Marshall will be one of the key men in handling the army's increase, which was highlighted today by the commencement of work on the first of more than 3000 new warplanes.

Five factories began work on orders for 371 planes—pursuit models capable of making more than 300 miles an hour, interceptor ships which will travel over 350 miles an hour and four-engine bombers.

War Draft Plea By Chamberlain

would not be introduced in peacetime Chamberlain said.

"On those two occasions (when he opposed conscription), conditions were very different from what they are today. On neither was war imminent and there was no question present to the minds of anybody at that time which appeared then likely to lead to war."

Chamberlain explained the government had agreed to conscription because of independence pledges given Poland, Greece and Rumania.

RAPS LLOYD GEORGE

In an unusual step he assailed David Lloyd George, war-time Prime Minister, who indicated through a question yesterday that he believed the government's conscription measure was not broad enough.

"I have noticed that it is the fixed practice of Mr. Lloyd George," Chamberlain said, "to belittle and pour contempt upon everything that this government is doing. The further in time the government gets from the period when he himself was prime minister, the worse it gets in his estimation."

The prime minister concluded with this pledge to the opposition:

"In the view of the government, if war ever did come again, we feel that taxes on the very wealthy, which are already very high, must be substantially increased.

"We feel that profiteering in war time, wherever it can be established, should be subjected to severe penalties.

"We intend that a system shall be introduced to deal with all profits arising out of war and not merely with profits out of armaments."

RUSSIA TO 'ASSIST EUROPE'

COPENHAGEN, April 27 (AP)—Ivan Maisky, Soviet Russian ambassador to London, returning from important policy conversations in Moscow, said today that Russia would "assist Europe in case of aggression."

Arriving at this Danish capital en route by air back to London, Maisky said:

"I return very content. Russia's position in a possible conflict is perfectly clear. We are going to assist Europe in case of aggression."

Maisky's remarks were regarded as a strong indication of progress in the effort by Britain and France to enlist Russia fully in their coalition.

Maisky left London April 18 for urgent conversations in Moscow on a British-proposed air alliance among Britain, Russia and France. Russia countered with a proposal for a general defensive pact. The negotiations on this were still proceeding in Moscow.

Rifle Shot Victim Seen Recovering

WORCESTER, April 27—Joseph Kubiak, 18, of Village street, was recovering today at Worcester City Hospital from what police said was a self-inflicted bullet wound over the heart.

Kubiak walked 200 feet to a store after allegedly turning a .22 caliber rifle on himself.

Rumanians Balking At Stop Hitler Plan

PARIS, April 27 (AP)—Rumania was reported today to have advised Great Britain and France of her opposition to enter mutual assistance pacts with them, at least for the present.

This development was reported as Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet conferred with Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador to Paris, before the Frenchman started conferences with Rumanian Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu.

It was understood in diplomatic circles that the British envoy had brought the report that Gafencu, in his earlier talks in London, had expressed Rumania's opposition to immediate entry into mutual assistance pacts.

Britain and France already have pledged their aid to Rumania in event her independence is attacked, but it is a one-way pledge which they would like to make reciprocal.

Diplomatic sources said Bonnet would reiterate France's pledge in the talks, but decided not to press upon Gafencu Anglo-French proposals for tightening their relations.

French circles in close touch with international affairs said Prime Minister Chamberlain's announcement of the conscription measure was largely of "psychological value" on the eve of Adolf Hitler's answer to President Roosevelt's appeal for peace.

F. D. WANTS NAZI NOTE, NOT TALK

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP) —President Roosevelt will refuse to consider Hitler's public speech tomorrow as a reply to his peace appeal addressed to the German leader.

High quarters indicated today the President would expect a written reply to his written appeal.

Consequently, there will be no official commnet tomorrow on Hitler's speech.

The attitude of officials today was that the fact that Mr. Roosevelt sent Hitler a written telegram requires Hitler to make a written answer. Such is the procedure of diplomacy.

Poland to Resist Any Danzig Grab

WARSAW, April 27 (AP)—The expectation that Adolf Hitler would discuss Polish-German relations in tomorrow's Reichstag speech brought press declarations today that Poland would resist any Nazi attempts to annex Danzig Free City.

The government press declared its belief that settlement was still possible "if Germany is reasonable."

The Nationalistic opposition, on the other hand, declared such hopes were useless and called on the government to abandon "such dangerous illusions."

Both sides agreed that Poland would accept no arrangements regarding Danzig without her free consent.

Nazi and Allied Warships Meet

GIBRALTAR, April 27 (AP) — Ships of the German, British and French fleets in the Mediterranean arrived at Tangier, international zone of Morocco, today.

The cruiser Leipzig, heading the German fleet in Spanish waters, arrived from Cadiz.

Thirty minutes later the British destroyer Grafton and the French destroyers Volta, Mogador and Forbin put in at Tangier.

The German cruiser Koln visited Algeciras, arriving from the east and firing a salute as it entered the harbor. A German destroyer entered the Ceuta harbor.

The British battleships Ramilles and Gallant and the destroyer Active left Gigraltar and headed eastward.

Favor Bill to Bar Bergdoll Forever

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—The House military committee formally agreed today to recommend legislation aimed at barring Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, World War draft dodger, from ever returning to the United States from his self-imposed exile in Germany.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Duke of Windsor Joins in Plea for World Peace Conference

LONDON, April 27 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor joined a number of other public figures today in endorsing an appeal by the London newspaper, Catholic Herald, for a world-wide peace conference.

The Herald issued the appeal to 250,000,000 Catholics throughout the world and "to all men of good will."

It has been placed before Pope Pius XII and all governments of Catholic countries.

Bay State Medical Society Studies Sickness Insurance

A plan whereby persons of small means would be assured competent medical advice, with the doctors equally certain of their fees was under study today by the Massachusetts Medical Society.

The new type of "socialized medicine" was endorsed by the society council after a three-hour discussion.

Although no specific plan was divulged, it was announced that the general plan will be a non-profit insurance, similar to that of the Blue Cross, which provides for hospitalization.

Prominent among those who will work out such a plan in detail is Dr. Channing Frothingham, president of the society and chairman of the public relations committee.

"We have community hospitals," said Dr. Frothingham, "which give us the place for the proper care of patients. We have the Blue Cross, that enables the patient to finance his hospital bills, and now this plan would fill in the gap, and provide for financing doctors' fees."

Dr. Frothingham said there was still many puzzling details to work out. First of all, he said there are no figures now available on which to base a fair estimate of how much this type of insurance should cost the patient.

Secondly, Dr Frothingham said, the amount and kind of professional services required varies so that great difficulty might be encountered in determining proper professional fees. In the third place, he said, certain legislation will be necessary in the case of the Blue Cross.

Dr. Alexander S. Begg explained this idea has been adopted to avoid establishment by the government of a compulsory health insurance.

BISHOP SPELLMAN SIGNALLY HONORED BY POPE PIUS XII

A bishop now honored by the Pope in Rome, the Vatican, the Pope's personal representative in the United States, Boston's Archbishop-elect Richard J. Cushing, and the Most Rev. Francis J. Spellman, Archbishop-elect of New York, all have been friends for many years. Their friendship dates back to the days when Bishop Spellman was assistant to the late Cardinal Merry del Val, Papal Secretary of State under Pope Pius X.

By JACK CONWAY

Copyright, 1939, by The Boston Evening American, Inc.

LAST FRIENDS—The Archbishop of Rome, Pius XII, and Archbishop-elect Spellman, who have been friends for years. They were photographed together in the Vatican gardens when the American prelate paid his respects to the Pontiff. They have been friends ever since. Their last meeting was in October, during the Papal coronation ceremonies.

*The young prelate returns from Rome a bishop heedful of the needs of an ailing world. Said at once, the personal representative of a host of dear friends he had made through the years in Rome and [illegible] has left re- [illegible] to the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Hold Fast to Faith, Cardinal's Plea

ENDING SESSION

". . . Hold fast to your faith and show the beauty of it in your lives, both public and private.

"Remember that your example will influence many whom you do not know personally . . .

[illegible] a thousand dioceses to [illegible] Women were [illegible] meeting today. It was [illegible] annual Communion Mass [illegible] closing session of their congress.

[illegible] of the Congress which [illegible] three years ago, the cardinal urged the women not to be discouraged in the fight for truth and justice and love of God and for real peace in the world.

At the conclusion of the day's session he prayed that God look upon the members of the Congress of [illegible]

"When I founded the league its purpose was fully explained and that purpose remains the same today, namely, the uniting in close bond all the Catholic women of the diocese in the great work of maintaining and sustaining the true ideals of Catholic Christian womanhood.

"Second, the combating of all modern pagan influences which are attacking the sanctity of the family and the home — divorce, vicious propaganda, immodest fashion, the theater, immoral dances and every form of degrading recreation.

"You have been fortunate in the choice of those invited to address you during this Congress. They have told you without mincing words of the dangers to the faith of yourselves and your children which lies in the false glitter of worldly and unworthy influences—in the pagan school, in the pagan play, and, worse, the pagan players.

"Fashion has always been a silly and senseless dame and she seems to be growing even more silly and more senseless than ever. A clever psychologist has said that you can tell the quality of a woman's brain by the kind of hat that covers it. Catholic women, God knows, have the highest standard constantly placed before their eyes, their minds and their hearts. Yet, why are they so often lured away from what they know is best to the cheap forms of imitation of the very worst."

CHAT Marion Gaffney of Malden, left, and Marie Dean of Randolph hold tete-a-tete during dinner which concluded the diocesan congress of Catholic women.

Stabs Wife, Kills Self In Crash With Truck

Mass said that her condition was serious but not critical.

Neighbors temporarily took charge of the two Nicholson children, Jackie 10 and Marie, 2, who had seen through the horror that ended with the dramatic highway suicide.

From conditions in the room and before a full account of the morning could be obtained from the injured woman at the hospital, they said they believe Nicholson had struck his wife on the head with a chair, then grabbed the knife and slashed and stabbed in a frenzy.

It was only a few minutes after [illegible] when [illegible] Thomas Murray of Barnstable and several of his officers were examining the scene of an accident [illegible] on the Cape Cod highway [illegible] the body of Nicholson was found.

N. E. Industry Gain Is Shown

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

Key indices of industrial activity in Massachusetts show important gains for the first quarter of the year . . . And, even more significant from a business forecasting angle, March was a month of [illegible] . Obviously troubled world news failed to halt the trend toward expansion . . .

[illegible] Commissioner Frederick M. Hanscom supplies comparisons with 1938 which show a gain over the past year of 11.5 per cent in March postal receipts, 7 per cent in March bank debits, 4.6 per cent in March electric power consumption, and 1.8 per cent in March gas consumption. Department store sales in Massachusetts and New England are a better gauge of trade than the [illegible] and financial [illegible] figures. And if they continue to become depressed the other two will soon be stopping out their dividends . . .

ARGUMENTS . . . That past performance is are meaningless and therefore Massachusetts industrial opinions must be changed can be disposed of by use of April returns . . . While they are not complete in some instances a bit skeletary they show that the [illegible] month of the second quarter now nearly ended has at worst continued the better trend . . . Those embracing a cheerful pessimism can even afford to give a point or two because what they must be granted in return more than offsets admitted losses . . . If we allow for dips in electric power consumption, shoe production and possibly cotton textile activity, and a gain in new building the result should be pleasing . . . Since the [illegible] component expected to improve has been showing a sharp upward [illegible] . . . As the real fate of last June is in its hands . . .

A PRACTICAL PROGRAM

We can [illegible] be expected in the [illegible] of a sound U. S. trade [illegible] has been adopted by the Trade Relations Conference of [illegible] Organized by the United States Chamber of Commerce from representatives from [illegible] national associations, the purpose of considering [illegible] problems in new aspects was to consider a [illegible] acceptable program. The American Newspaper Publishers Association [illegible] R. A. Cooke traffic department manager as its representative . . . And the copy of the conference report he is distributing is decidedly appealing . . . It is not offered as a cure all but as a practical start on a move to restore increased prosperity and credit . . .

RECOMMENDATIONS . . . Of the conference include a strong declaration of purpose to preserve and promote private ownership . . . But note that some would neither go far enough to [illegible] nor as far as we do to maximum tax [illegible] . . . And a condition of the new [illegible] components of certain government officers on rates set by the ICC . . . Federal financing and is stressed . . . With tax relief of various kinds emphasized . . . Simplified consolidation procedure and abandonment procedure are advocated . . . Removal of obstacles to reorganization is suggested . . . And finally certain measures for relief of burdens and restrictions are put forward . . .

Research Men Still Roosevelt Choice

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Economic Commentator

Leon Henderson's appointment to the Securities & Exchange Commission indicates that the experiment of using research men in administrative and executive posts is to continue."

Under Harry L. Hopkins, secretary of commerce Mr. Henderson's background has been largely in fields associated with social service rather than ordinary business. Aside from teaching and governmental service his chief experience has been with the Eleemosynary Russell Sage Foundation.

The quality of business "appeasement" is revealed in the character of appointments to federal agencies which deal directly with business men and financiers. With a few exceptions, such as the [illegible] critical key man on the SEC is Mr. Henderson.

When men of action are supervised and regulated by theorists and academic executives the former are not especially heartened.

Mr. Henderson is a man of [illegible] experience seems rather alien to the work of the SEC in supervising the creation and marketing of securities.

His choice by the President is one more indication that the rule by amateurs is to continue.

Certainly when Mr. Henderson is teamed up with the brilliant Jerome Frank, another member of the SEC, the commission will not be lacking in imaginative personnel.

But the real question is what will be the effect of this new atmosphere on expediting new financing as a stimulant to re-employment and recovery.

Having served as consulting economist for the WPA Mr. Henderson will now be called upon to determine whether private employers are expected to [illegible] new financing [illegible] and whether they must [illegible] and harvest [illegible] .

THE CHAMBERLAIN GOVERNMENT, approving unprecedented peacetime conscription, clears the way for more than three hundred thousand young Britishers between the ages of 20 and 21 to be drafted for six months' duty with the army.

Thus a new generation is called to warfare and England adds one to the multitudes of peoples that have characterized our entire history.

Those young men were born during or immediately after the World War and consequently have enjoyed a peaceful youth. But this seems to be the extent of their freedom from bloodshed.

LADY ASTOR

Now, despite the air fanfarenistations of American-born Lady Nancy Astor and other peace-at-any-price-at-all on the British Isles, they are stepping into the battle shoes of their fathers, grandfathers, great-grandfathers and great great grandfathers.

The one nice thing about English history is the way that that virtuous person always has managed to provide a right proper cause for each new prom.

Wars began 35 years before Christ's birth and continued with amazing consistency until the Armistice of 1918 produced the "war to end wars," the idea of tranquility which, now, circumstances to end.

The record is enlightening. Way back in 1066 was the Battle of Hastings, the Normans conquering the Saxons. Twenty years later it was time for taxation and the establishment of the Feudal system. Wars, in every century, were sent to the Crusades and Jests.

Crusades were launched in the 12th century but not before they had taken over Normandy. The wars of those years were stopped to [illegible] the Americans [illegible] to assist [illegible] contests. The last English [illegible] was [illegible].

Every decade [illegible] Britain's [illegible] during the 1400s. There was the Wars of the Roses. And countless other [illegible]. The seventeenth century was no different.

The first of the Stuarts, America's [illegible] the Seventeenth century [illegible].

The Eighteenth Century was little better. In a series of struggles [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].

The ensuing [illegible] were [illegible]. Twelve years of [illegible] aggression. Wars [illegible] the Corn Laws, the Crimean War, the Zulu War, the seizure of Egypt, Mediterranean fighting, the Sudan, African War and a half dozen [illegible] [illegible].

The [illegible] year 1900 alone [illegible] for the World War and a total [illegible] of the Empire's sons under white crosses and warmed [illegible].

At last in England [illegible] "Peace Day" [illegible] a Beard [illegible] prize.

So all bearded men at [illegible] Commissioner John Carson, "Peace Day" [illegible] would portray a Beard [illegible] without makeup. The dignified Hughes [illegible] would hardly be himself without his magnificent facial adornment. Supreme Court Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes' flowing moustache and white chin-covering excite general admiration. Professor Alfred Bushnell Hart of Harvard and Congressman George Holden Tinkham continue the manly tradition in Massachusetts.

Stylists are optimistic. The tide is turning, they say. Soon men will be wearing mutton chops, burnsides "imperiales," en carres, "Ballets" and spitzbarts. We might even go back to the vogues of 1440, when 60 per cent of the adult male population wore hair on their faces.

Human Side of News -1-

by EDWIN C. HILL

WE HAVE a perfumed circus with the band playing Beethoven and other classics. Nostalgic associations cling around the [illegible] blare of a Sousa march or the stepped-up tempo of a Viennese waltz, and particularly do these memories stir again with the old standard fragrance of the circus, pervasive and lingering, without benefit of eau de Cologne.

I have heard several children moaning about all these new things.

I heard no children complaining. Naturally they had no sentimental heritage of old tunes and old sights. But they were as avid and eager with each new delight as any of their fathers ever had been, excluding no tears for lost aromas or quicksteps. That doesn't seem quite right to some of the gray-beards. We like to remember our past from generation to generation.

THE CIRCUS RETURNS!
Perfumed and Stream-Lined

IN ENGLAND it is a disturbing breach of decorum when a bright lad fails to stumble over the "bridge of asses" in Euclid. But give the young and startled lad a chance in their boyhood of wonder and hope, and they will take what they like and build their own pageant and lingering associations.

Perhaps it's a calliope that pipes you from the years; in the years to come it may be a blast of saxophone that will bring tears to the eyes of that eager little boy in the Eton jacket over there in the second tier.

Maybe if we get out of their way, and let them pick their own enchantment, and built their own aspirations and their own memories, they will shape up a more seemly world than this one.

But, regardless of all that they get a better circus than we got. They have more to remember.

It is easy to say that we got just as much fun out of the little old circus as children have. Maybe we did and natives are right but the elder sentimentalists among us will have to admit that there is a "zing" in a flare and a flourish here that I have not heard or seen for a long, long time.

MANY THOUSANDS of babies live to go to circuses because of sanitation in the preparation and packaging of food. The word pasteurization wouldn't fit into any twilight light with a barefoot boy herding the cows homeward, and it wouldn't rhyme with anything in particular.

But these were not alone the days of pastoral [illegible]. They also were the days of Malta fever, and various other belly afflictions due to the lack of inspection and sanitation in dairying.

WASHINGTON, April 27—In the last of 21 conferences held by President Roosevelt in his request to Hitler for assurances that he would not attack or invade the [illegible] or their possessions [illegible] would [illegible] to become only a [illegible] concern, the United States.

That country is Portugal. There has been no information of any intention on the part of the German dictator to invade that country OR ITS POSSESSIONS. Why was it included?

In any drive that Hitler might make to extend his empire toward the East, the American people could not conceivably have any legitimate interest, sentimental one.

ATLANTIC AIRLINER
Could Hitler Seize Its Base?

But if Germany should attack Portugal, and absorb that small and most precariously situated little country and its possessions—it would be of the most vital importance to the American people for by such a move they would find the might of Germany advance to but little more than 2000 miles from New York.

Since 1421 the Azores have been in the possession of Portugal and most Americans have long been indifferent to them.

The United States today is no longer indifferent. It is keeping a sharp watch on developments in that part of the Atlantic, for the Azores today are of greater importance than at any time since the Spanish galleons en route home from the New World, dropped there on the last lap of a voyage that was apt to be interrupted by an English [illegible].

Today the Azores are on the main world [illegible] airlines between the United States and Europe. In the hands of the German war lord backed by a German fleet and held by a German military force they would constitute a menace to New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Charleston, the Atlantic seaboard.

THEY would be enemy hands precisely the same menace that the Hawaiian Islands would be in the hands of a Pacific enemy, for they lie roughly about the same distance from New York that Honolulu lies from San Francisco. The Azores are less than 12 hours by airline from New York.

They would constitute in enemy hands a direct menace to the Panama Canal.

The German fleet which passed through the English channel the other day for "maneuvers" off the coast of Spain was only a few hundred miles from the Azores.

ATTORNEY GENERAL UPHOLDS LAW

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, April 7.—Polly Warburton, one of the most popular ladies of the Palm Beach set, was arrested by a Washington official whose name often had been linked with hers. "Look, I've got a ticket for speeding," Miss Warburton greeted. "I'm so glad you've come—because you can fix it for me" . . . "I can't fix any traffic tickets," the official assured. "I took an oath to uphold the law—not to assist in breaking it. Sorry." Miss Warburton telephoned a local police officer, who fixed the ticket for her. A few weeks after the social columns announced her engagement to another man although this story may have had nothing to do with it.

But the man who couldn't fix a traffic ticket was Frank Murphy, U. S. Attorney General.

CHRYSLER, JR., threatened to withdraw his paintings from the current Wildenstein Exhibit, featuring "Forces of Modern Art" because the officials refused to exhibit two other paintings he owns . . . Mrs. Vincent Sheean is urging her husband to write a play in which she can appear. Sheean's only active participation in The Theater was a one-day appearance with a summer-stock company in Connecticut. He quit because he felt he wasn't suited for the role assigned him—that of a foreign correspondent.

ONE OF THE REASONS why Franchot Tone is quitting the Group Theater after his current engagement is the fact that he's receiving the top Group salary—$200 a week. And Franchot has invested $35,000 in Group productions . . . Lou Nova visited El Morocco recently, but ordered training-table food brought to his plate. "I'll be all right against Max Baer," he confessed, "if I can keep away from him the first two rounds." . . . Congressman Lex Green of Florida has decided to oppose Senator Andrews for the Senatorial nomination next year . . . The Musicians' Union and Grover Whalen will announce their final World's Fair settlement on Friday . . . New York Drama Critics Circle completed its official term last week-end.

IN REFERRING TO HIMSELF in an interview John Barrymore called himself Jack Barrymore. . . . When your reporter argued that Mr. Barrymore's Hamlet today in an attempt to get the interview started the actor came down on his new tiff with Mr. Barrymore No. 4 Lionel. Just as Barrie Barrymore, the future actor, was in the extreme . . . "Of course, Mr. Barrymore, you can tell me it's none of my business and perhaps you'll be right," I said at one stage of the talk . . . "Why should I say that, old man?" was his answer . . . "We all have to earn a living. And I know what you're up against. I used to be a newspaperman myself." So you can add John Barrymore to the most spoofed army who "used to be a newspaperman myself."

But John actually had quit on the side. He was a cartoonist for the New York Journal-American before going on the stage . . . And John Colton and Harlan Thompson gave him his big chance in the leading role of "The Fortune Hunter" there were moments when The Great Profile wished he were back in the newspaper business. . . . Incidentally, while Barrymore is going through his latest marital ordeal, a daughter by an early marriage is on the New York debutante list this season.

ELAINE WAS CHATTY and friendly in her talk. To a certain point. She flatly refused to say anything about the state of her marriage or about her dispute with her husband. The wise man will wager that among their disagreements has been one about the play "Dear Children," in which Elaine is playing Barrymore's stage daughter . . . Miss Barrie is convinced that she is an astute judge of manuscripts. When the whole story comes out you will probably read that Elaine was dissatisfied with "Dear Children" as a vehicle to introduce her and her husband to Broadway. Barrymore said by the way, that the play will play Boston before New York . . . There are no booking plans to that effect as yet.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: This is not a note calculated to impugn the motives of Commissioner of Correction Arthur T. Lyman in his attack on politicians and the charge that "pull" will accomplish almost anything in Massachusetts . . . Months ago this column wrote that his friends considered him a worthy candidate for the governorship and that a boom might get under way. Watch for it . . . The Young Men's Department of Central Square, East Boston, will hold its fourth annual dance May 1 at Oceanview Ballroom in Revere. . . . The press-agent for the East Boston club, an anonymous one, also has a sense of humor . . . "Say, did MacKinnon have you on the run?" he writes . . . "We observed a 'George Holland' in the entry list of the B. A. A. Marathon."

. . . Which gets around to MacKinnon again after a brief lapse caused by the grippe . . . With the grippe the mental gymnastics necessary to read the celebrated Mr. MacK. are an almost unentertainable addict but of suffering.

But when we were reading The Whiz Bang column last, The Great Bewilderer was telling about a certain Swede Lindholm who journeyed to Gotham every now and then just to eat a steak . . . Mr. Lindholm took the Comet out of Boston and arrived for his steak-eating in New York, said the Master Mystifier . . . Two questions. When did the Comet start plying between Boston and New York? . . . And how can a MacKinnon reader be so disloyal to Bob Berger's one-pound (steak) sizzlers which George used to describe until they dripped, that he would journey to New York for a foreign chunk of beef?

LISTEN, WORLD! -:- -:- By Elsie Robinson

I HAVE COME to love a place. But it was a hard job. That statement would surprise you if you could see the place of which I am speaking. It is beautiful, with such powerful, passionate beauty that it clutches you, at first glance, as an alluring personality clutches you.

With just such fascination the beauty of this place clutched me at first. For days, weeks, I could think of nothing else. Literally I fell in love with it. I fell it with all my senses.

At last, I was sure, I had found a place with which I could be happy forever. I would build a home in this place. I would adore it, serve it, give myself to it utterly. I would spend all the money on it I could earn. Restlessly I started.

THEN ONE DAY, as suddenly as though a bell had clanged, I realized that the delight was over. I had been growing a little restless. Tired, perhaps. Now, definitely, I knew that I was bored! Fed up!

I couldn't believe it! I looked around me with shocked and startled eyes. Nothing had changed. There was the same incredible beauty and glory which once had filled me with such peace and joy which once had seemed the perfect answer to all my hunger and discontent. But it no longer meant anything to me. I could still realize its loveliness and not want it. I had only one desire. I wanted to get away!

However I couldn't get away. For many reasons I had to stay and work on the things I had started. So I stayed. And had a pretty hot time there. I was lonely beyond words, rebellious, restless, angry, filled with self-pity.

One year passed. Two. And then there came an other change. Not abruptly. It was [illegible] slowly, almost unconsciously. [illegible] began to come back to me. I began [illegible] place again. I loved it as I had never [illegible]

HERE'S how even a traditional food such as beans can come to your table in a brand new dress. Salads made with either red kidney beans or the white navy bean variety can really put new life into your menus. Served in sweet pepper halves, or on a bed of lettuce, and accompanied by hard cooked eggs, fresh tomato slices and brown bread slices, they become a dish that's easy to serve and easy to like. And don't forget the accompanying bowl of mayonnaise.

You Can be Beautiful

For Fagged Faces

By ARLINE GOULD

YOUR NEW hat is undoubtedly balm to your ego . . . at least to hold it off and look at it . . . but does your face live up to the chapeau when you carefully balance the flowers at what you consider the most devastating angle over your eyes?

If it doesn't we suggest that you [illegible] your complexion some straw berries and cream. It is a stunning cream that has among other [illegible] strawberry oils and it gives your face a fresh glow and texture to "die for."

It naturally is a treatment and [illegible] expensive for the cream, but since it attacks the problem of [illegible] from a new angle, that of [illegible] and stimulation. It [illegible] the softening action of [illegible] cream and gives the [illegible] that keeps powder on [illegible] often a problem of women and [illegible] skin.

THOROUGH CLEANSING

Use it in the morning before [illegible] and then again before [illegible] And even both times [illegible] you will be amazed at [illegible] ready to powder. Don't [illegible] it.

It's one of the most discouraging beauty secrets we've seen and we've felt like eating more than one at one time! It's massaged with gentle rotary upward and outward movements [illegible] pads of your fingers after a thorough cleansing. Leave it on a [illegible] then remove it with [illegible] Apply make up and [illegible] you'll be tempted to go without [illegible]

If you need a beauty aid for the [illegible] of the bride-to-be or for the [illegible] grandmother, and we can't [illegible] say which it flatters most!

HELPS ERASE TINY LINES

Among its unusual actions is the way it brings a natural oil up to the tissues. You'll find any suggestion of open pores, blackheads [illegible] will already easing away. And contours becoming firm and well rounded.

When you look tired around the eyes that is the cream to use for it helps erase tiny lines and [illegible] dark circles. It's ever so good to have a firming action on those small muscles at the corners of the eyes which can [illegible] so fast.

Try it some evening when you've decided to go [illegible] and not face even the [illegible] next day with such a tired look.

Camilla

by Anne Stretton, who wrote 'PROPOSAL'

Who's Who and What's Happened:

CAMILLA and MARK might have come into a fine inheritance if their father, a famous but eccentric writer, had not neglected to marry their mother. When he died, he left no provision for his children but a life interest in the house in CLADYS, who had no maternal affection at all for Camilla and Mark. And he willed the lands of Dower to SIMON, a cousin. Simon managed the estate efficiently and was like a brother to Camilla and Mark. They did not realize he was in love until the day he brought home a wife, EVELYN, to Dove. Although Evelyn disappointed Simon by giving Mark an eleventh birthday, Simon gave Dove to them. After Simon and Evelyn were married Mark went away to school and Camilla met STEPHEN FULLER, who was staying with friends near there. They took walks together, met by lots for her home. To her horror, Camilla discovered her mother was dating Simon after this. Stephen told her he loved her. Camilla came unexpectedly. Simon discovered Camilla's love affair and declared he would not allow her to be married at her age. Mark had written him about Stephen, but the letter had been returned.

Bartholomew, Cooper Star as Military School Students

CAROLE LOMBARD is the star of "White Woman," a daring love drama, current screen feature at the RKO-Boston. Charles Laughton is co-starred. "Whispering Enemies" is the second feature.

'Dodge City' On Twin Bills

"Dodge City" Warner Brothers thrilling Western filmed entirely in technicolor, tops the Paramount and Fenway Theatres' new bill. The co-feature "Pardon Our Nerve" is the hilarious tale of two hill but beautiful girls, who at tempt to "get rich quick" by entering the prize fighting business. Lynn Bari, Michael Whalen and June Gale are the featured stars.

"Dodge City" has for stars Errol Flynn, Olivia De Havilland and Ann Sheridan. A lusty drama of the days when there was no law west of Chicago, the picture deals with the desperate battle between law abiding citizens and the lawless element who sought to dominate the West.

'The Castles' Held at Keith's

Excellent propaganda for Culver, a Spirit of Culver, the Keith-Bartholomew Jackie Cooper costarring Universal talkie new second feature on the Keith Memorial bill. "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle" continues a second sensational week at this house.

The two one-time child stars of Hollywood offer an interesting contrast in their first picture together. They are seen as first year pupils at the celebrated military training school for boys.

Cooper, whose father, Henry Hull, has been reported killed in action during the war and recipient of the congressional medal is at the school on an American Legion scholarship. Undecorated early antisocial when he enters, he gradually changes for the better. The transformation, in large measure, may be traced to young Bartholomew. The two become pals.

'WUTHERING HEIGHTS' MAGNIFICENT FILM---PEGGY DOYLE

Loew's Hit One Of Screen's Best

By PEGGY DOYLE

Fantastic, eerie, morbid and magnificent are the words for "Wuthering Heights," the Samuel Goldwyn production of the Emily Bronte classic, which has lost none of its power to haunt, horrify and stir one in its transference to the screen.

The real star of this movie masterpiece, now unreeling on Loew's State and Orpheum screens, is William Wyler's direction and this with all due deference to the purely fine performances turned in by Olivier, Oberon, Erskine and Fitzgerald.

He has caught the mood of this weirdest and strangest of all love affairs and like the mist that shrouds the desolate Yorkshire moors, where Heathcliff, the gypsy and Cathy took their half-savage passion, it pervades the entire production.

It is exactly how he has accomplished this. It is also most of the first credit to the as yet the ugliest case of the Hollywood standardizing process on this made in Hollywood masterpiece. It violates the Hollywood credo completely. It is an unpretty story, a story wrought with horror and cruelty, a story unrelieved by any of the sentimentality that is supposed to be the backbone of the movie public. It is a story that is not to be told in Hollywood. It is a story that is not to be told in Hollywood.

The Hollywood moguls are such cowards. What a society for the movie public if they would follow the leader in their stories and not be afraid of public censorship. But even Goldwyn and Louise Wyler in the new making.

Merle Oberon, Cathy, is a [illegible] creature to whom [illegible] seemed to [illegible] and again went to [illegible] horror and emptiness.

Once a highly synthetic glamour-star with an Oriental mask, this British actress graduates to the cyber brackets in this, her latest acting assignment. The exotic quality Miss Bronte stressed is more than skin-deep in Oberon. Cathy in her scenes with Olivier her response to the inescapable [illegible] revelry, [illegible] of Heath. It is impressive acting.

Austen Lake:

The Sad (?) Saga Of Lou Gehrig

JOE DiMAGGIO, 23, TALL, SLEEK and Latin-looking, perched on the edge of a lobby sofa in an uptown hotel this morning. The heir presumptive to Babe Ruth's mantle of riches, success and fame, was unshucking a stack of fan letters, slitting the envelopes with practice thumb and filing the contents away under an arm pit. A half circle of newsmen examined him orally on matters of health, heart and habit, keeping scrap paper memoranda of his answers and eyeing his tailored figure from the tip of his polished boots to the crown of his pomaded hair. An uncatalogued bystander offered an uncapped fountain pen and a newly minted baseball and Joe scrawled his signature with the detached poise of an industrial magnate endorsing a bank draft.

AUSTEN LAKE

In a faraway corner, behind a screen of potted palms, Lou Gehrig sat, hunched on the back of his spine and gazing toward the skylight. No fan mail lay in his lap. No journalists lingered to jot down his gems of wisdom. No autograph hunter invaded his privacy. He, who had been Babe Ruth's heir presumptive many years before DiMaggio came to the Yankees, was now just another member of the gentlemen's ensemble—the "iron horse," of course, and a swatter of declining ability, but beyond that just a guy named Lou who was feeling his first physical frosts.

Joe had cornered the popular imagination! DiMaggio was the star!

Lou's Light Twice Dimmed

AS HE LOOKED BACKWARD DOWN THE years this condition must have aroused resentment in Gehrig's bosom. Because he had the earlier misfortune to mature as a great homerun hitter at a time when the Great American, Babe Ruth, owned the original copyright. And though Lou hit some important homeruns in his time, they lacked the magic of Babe Ruth's swing and the arch of their flight as they disappeared over the outfield screens. The people yelled a little for Lou, but never so much as they yelled when Babe struck out in his pompous way.

Lou's ability was merely a candle light under the calcium brilliance of Babe's personality and he never attained the recognition or income that should have been his just due until Babe reached the end of his beam in 1935. And, though the citizens agreed that there would never be Babe's like in their generation, they hailed Gehrig as his heir presumptive and the best in sight. So Lou enjoyed the spotlight to himself. But only for a year.

WILLIAMS CONFIDENT IN ABILITY TO BAT

By WALTER KILEY

Teddy Williams today celebrates his first week's birthday in the majors . . . and his experience to date have convinced him that he will make good . . . that the outlook appears more encouraging now that he's had a look at big time pitching.

The Sox [illegible] rookie was [illegible] over with him [illegible] Dr. Conway of the Sox medical staff confined him to [illegible] yesterday . . . the kid had a [illegible] . . . but "Doc" was [illegible] another visit this morning for a final okay on his playing against the Yankees this p.

"I'm going to get myself plenty of hits from now on," he told us . . . "I don't see why I can't go out there and hit them just as well as I did at Minneapolis . . . All they do here is throw them at you . . . and all you have to do is hit them back at them . . . There's nothing difficult about that.

"I'll just get the fat end of my bat against these pitches from now on and I promise you you'll see plenty of homers over the left centerfield fence at Fenway Park."

WILLIAMS CONFIDENT

Williams is certainly one of the [illegible] characters. [illegible] seem to be any [illegible] about him . . . just plain [illegible] and he can't see why [illegible] made of getting a few [illegible] bits occasionally.

"I can hit them a lot harder than I did that home run into the right centerfield bleachers on Sunday," he told us . . . "I just swung easy on that one and it sailed . . . I'll put lots of them up higher before we've played many more games at home."

He wasn't nervous at any time during the past week, he says . . . "When I went up there last Sunday for the first time, I just said to myself I'll look for anything . . . In didn't try to kill any of the balls . . . I swung easy and they went . . . The next day I tried the same way . . . but it just wasn't my day . . . But I didn't worry, for I know you have to take the breaks as they come.

"I'm waiting to get a crack at these fields like Cleveland and Yankee Stadium . . . I'm going to bombard those short field fences . . . I want to get those runs . . . Because I want to do my share toward winning ball games for the Red Sox.

LIKES DETROIT

"I'm mighty tickled to be playing for the Sox . . . They tell me it's a great ball town . . . If I couldn't play here I'd rather play at Detroit . . . from what I hear that's a red hot ball town . . . Don't think I'd be so interested in being with the Yankees.

"But say, do you think any of us can stop those Yanks? Guess they're best of us all, aren't they?"

Williams has already begun to [illegible] Fabian Gaffke [illegible] yesterday on 24 hour option for Louisville . . .

"Babe was glad to go because now he'll get a chance to play every day . . . and Louisville needs right handed batters. Then, too, he'll be able to visit his girl friend in Milwaukee on the way . . . That's something. He'll get just as much money, too."

[illegible] Todd has [illegible] out in San Diego . . . [illegible] for her . . . but [illegible] whether the freeing [illegible] permitted. He's soon to make his home [illegible] he [illegible] the season gets dark and [illegible] wants . . . Wesley is to be back in [illegible] . . . Joe Cronin held open [illegible] at Kenmore and expects [illegible] the fact that the re-[illegible] himself shakes off Dickman and Wes [illegible] spots in his pitching picture . . . So sorry have been some of his pitchers over the week-end that he has an open mind on his quest of regular starters . . . as he depends on what they show the next week or so. But he is particularly solid right now on this pair.

Sonnenberg, McLain Feature On Garden Card

Gus Sonnenberg, former w[illegible] champion, will [illegible] to the wrestling wars tonight when he [illegible] ashes with Mayes McLain, former All-America football star in a finish bout at the Garden under the direction of Paul Bowser.

Dr. Francis Henderson gave Sonnenberg a thorough physical check-up in view of the injuries he suffered in his bout with Steve Casey, and the Dynamiter has been pronounced physically fit.

Sonnenberg has been working out at a local gym for the past week and says he will win from McLain with his flying tackle.

McLain is also an expert with the flying tackle, and he believes he will succeed in pinning the former title holder.

McLAIN POWERFUL

McLain is a big, powerful fellow and has won all of his matches in Boston. Like Sonnenberg he is shooting for a championship contest with Steve Casey.

Gus is still a sentimental favorite but on form he cannot be classed higher than McLain. The latter has youth on his side and has not taken as many hard knocks as Sonnenberg.

Leo Numa, the former "Black Panther" returns to Boston in a special bout with Marvin Westenburg as an opponent.

RUSSELL ON CARD

In the semifinal, Rough Rebel Bob Russell meets Frank Brown, while preliminaries will include Cliff Gustafson, new Scandanavian star, who is expected to be a top title threat soon, against Frenchy LaRue. Harry Jacobs vs. The [illegible] and Jim Casey vs. Sam Zuckerman.

The entire squads of the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox have been invited and many baseball heroes are expected to be at the ringside as guests of Promoter Bowser.

Garden Card

MAIN BOUT
(Best two falls in three)

Ambers Has Chance Against Armstrong

Lou Has Speed To Regain Title

LOU AMBERS looks like the best bet to win from Henry Armstrong. There is not another lightweight or welterweight who would have a chance of conquering Hammering Henry.

Ambers and Armstrong will battle for the world's lightweight title in a bout that will be staged in New York in August or in the [illegible] ring meets Armstrong [illegible] a quick [illegible] of the 15 forty rounds. The champion's face and eyes were battered [illegible] and his body severely [illegible] when the contest ended.

"It is my plan to keep Ambers active in the ring so that he will be razor sharp when he collides with Armstrong," Al Weill told me following the New Yorker's victory over Melody. "Lou still has all of his amazing speed, while his boxing has been very good. The best way for Ambers to keep at the top of his form is by boxing frequently."

Assign MacFayden To Stop Phillies

PHILADELPHIA, April 27—Danny MacFayden missed his crack at the Dodgers of Brooklyn when rain washed out the third and final game of the series at Ebbetts Field.

But "Deke" gets his chance to hang up a second victory this afternoon as the Swarm opens a two-game series with the Phillies at Shibe Park.

It's the final away-from-home performances for the Bees before they return to the Beehive to go through their paces for better than two full weeks, their first prolonged Boston showing.

Casey Stengel is proud of the showing of his Bees since the season opened and makes no bones about it that they will cause no end of trouble to the pennant contenders before September.

Even in the defeats suffered by the Stengelmen, Boss Case has been happy, for his team has been in there fighting every minute, fielding well and getting the usual fine Bees' pitching.

PITCHERS HOLDING UP

Records show that the Boston staff has acquitted itself at least as well, to date, as any other crew in the majors.

Lou Fette, in particular, has been going great guns, this quiet-spoken veteran having allowed only one run in 18 innings of pitching, a record which sets him almost in a class by himself in National League ranks.

Oddly enough, while Fette is showing such rare ability, his roomie, Jim Turner, has been finding the going rocky, the case being just the reverse to that of early season a year ago.

At that time Fette just couldn't hang up a winner while the "Milkman" was away to a brilliant start.

PHILS IN THIRD PLACE

MacFayden's pitching rival today will be Al Hollingsworth, who hopes to keep alive the amazing winning streak so unexpectedly being set by the Phillies.

Doc Prothro has done something to inject new fury and drive into the Phillies, a team which in the opinion of most experts is favored to land once again in the cellar, but which at this time is sitting pretty in third place.

Terrier Crew Preparing For Williams

Boston University's newly-recognized crew, with one official regatta to its credit, is now preparing for its next affair, which will be with Williams College along the Charles River a week from Saturday.

Last Saturday the Terrier shell inaugurated its campaign against major competition and wound up fourth in a four-crew regatta, but despite the finish they really won acclaim from many crew authorities. Competing against Harvard, Rutgers and M. I. T., crews which had a fall training campaign, a long indoor winter session on rowing machines and a complete spring training, the Terriers did as well as could be expected.

Jim Manning's boys, not having the advantage of winter work and very little spring training, actually led M. I. T. until the last few strokes, but then weakened slightly and the Engineers took third place by a scant deck length.

Coach Manning was satisfied with the showing of his boys, all things being considered, and felt that the stiff competition would do his boys considerable good. Many weaknesses, naturally, cropped up and the smoothness the Terrier mentor is striving for was lacking; but Manning is not contemplating any shakeup in his boat, for he feels he now has the best possible combination.

In 1920, Browne and Nichols secured the services of Jim Manning as coach, and his work was so outstanding that he is still there after nineteen years of service. His highlights at Browne and Nichols took place in 1929 when he took the boys to Europe, where they captured the Thames Cup in a series of races, which included 26 crews, and in 1936, when he took two crews to London, Browne and Nichols and the Union Boat Club. Both these shells reached the semi-finals.

For the past two years, in order to help stimulate rowing at Boston University, Jim coached the Terrier unofficial crew. His work was so successful that it helped the sport receive official recognition from the university.

Many have asked just what system Manning uses and the answer is that Jim is a disciple of the old "Pop" Courtney method of rowing. "Pop," who died in 1921, was a Cornell mentor, and his success at Ithaca is unparalleled in rowing history. He won 102 out of 147 regattas, and his Big Red crews still hold a record of three complete sweeps at Poughkeepsie.

IT WAS RATHER LONELY up in Ferndale, N. Y., where Max Baer is training for his bout with Lou Nova, until a flock of Amazons who will toss javelins, shoot arrows and drive chariots at the New York World's Fair breezed in to do a little training themselves. Now Max has plenty of company as he does his daily dozen.

PABST GETS THE CALL

For Keener Refreshment, Blue Ribbon Wins!

• With America's smartest sports fans, IT'S PABST BLUE RIBBON! The beer that quenches thirst with a keener thrill—and keeps you feeling marvelously refreshed. It's lighter! It's brighter! It's brisk-bodied, never syrupy or logy. Nothing to bog you down, or slow-up its invigorating tingle!

Blue Ribbon's master-blended formula is a 95-year Pabst secret, so don't expect to find it in any other beer. Next time you step out, pass the word you want PABST!

At Churchill Downs—America's smartest turf fans gather for this great Kentucky classic May 6th. And Pabst Gets the Call! Blue Ribbon is the winner... as it is from coast to coast, in thousands of America's smartest restaurants, lounges, clubs and hotels!

And America's Homes • Give Pabst the Call!

From coast to coast, Pabst is first in America's homes! This overwhelming preference is the truest measure of popularity—won by 95 years of Pabst quality. Order Blue Ribbon today. Take your choice of bottles or handy, space-saving cans.

Sande's Derby Hopes Lie in Heather Broom

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 27 (AP)—Earl Sande, three times winning jockey in the Kentucky Derby, trainer for John Hay Whitney, sadly discounts his chances of a starter in this year's classic at Churchill Downs.

Sande had the heart-breaking experience last year of having the favorite Stagehand become ill a few days before the Derby.

Earl said the running today of the Bluegrass Stakes held his attention more than the Derby because the showing of Heather Broom will determine whether he has a Derby contender.

COUNTERPOISE OUT

"Counterpoise," he said, "just isn't a Derby horse."

"A nice, handy horse," was Sande's description of Heather Broom, Chestnut colt from the Whitney Stable, "but he'll have to run a good race today to get in the Derby, and I don't know what he can do on a slow track."

Jockey Basil James was to ride the Son of the Porter.

"I'm getting along pretty well as a trainer," he said, modestly omitting the fact his charges won more money than any other trainer's in 1938, "but I'd rather be out there riding." (Sande also trains for Maxwell Howard.)

A question about his tastefully dressed 135 pounds—he said he'd put on about 15 pounds since he won his last Derby on Gallant Fox in 1930—and he reverted again to horses he's training.

Heather Broom, he said, "handily" won his only start this year in a conditioning race at Jamaica, as did Whitney stable's second choice three-year-old, Counterpoise, but Sande wasn't sure how the Broom would go on a slippery track. He was the only Whitney horse brought to Kentucky.

NO RUNNING YET

"I expect him to run a good race, though," he added, "and if he should happen to win, then we'll give him a chance in the derby. Of course he didn't do much last year, winning one race and finishing aother in a dead heat.

"I don't know if he's a derby horse yet, but his record isn't as good as some of those I rode in derbies."

Sande said the Whitney stables, which returned to racing last fall, had some "nice looking two-year-olds but they haven't done any running yet."

He said his mind was too much on the Bluegrass stake—he saddled the race's initial winner, Fencing, in 1927—to try out as a long range forecaster of his juveniles' future.

Lesley Cup Golf At Country Club

After a lapse of almost two decades, the Lesley Golf Cup matches today were heading back to The Country Club, Brookline, original site of the international competition between Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania and eastern Canada.

In the early days of the Lesley matches the tournaments were held annually on Brookline turf, but this year's award to The Country Club marks the first Lesley Cup match at the original site in 18 years.

The matches will be held on September 29 and 30.

Grove, Gomez In Fenway Duel

shoulder much of the Sox load that on his 39-year-old arm Boston's heavy duty service depends.

Old "Mose" has already met up with the New Yorkers this new diamond year and came through ignominously, albeit his mates let him down and he fell heir to the short end of a 2 to 0 decision.

Tomorrow Grove matches wits and talents with Lefty Gomez, just one of the several visiting firemen whose mound efforts have been a caution to all other pennant aspirants.

Given a fair shake in weather and a bit of prayed-for warmth to thaw out the chills, Boston's biggest baseball crowd of the year should sit for the spectacle.

The Sox got a chance to rest up for the Yankees when rain washed out the finale with the Senators of Washington.

SOX ANXIOUS TO GO

But the home forces didn't relish the layoff. They were more than desirous of building up their own morale by an impressive victory over the Nats and to wash out the dark brown taste of their last three so-so issues.

They wanted, too, to find their batting eyes in earnest so that they might fittingly welcome Gomez and his selected offerings and thereby show their disdain for this so-called "Team of Destiny."

Bess McCarthy was inclined this morning to start Al Powell and Rookie Joe Gallagher in his outfield in preference to George Selkirk and Tom Henrich, preferring his right handers against Grove's southpaw hurling.

Either way he loses little power. All four of the quartet can hit.

Joe DiMaggio, touching off his best early season start since he arrived in the majors, and his teammates, were laughing off those "gloomies" who have been so many and so often condemning Lou Gehrig to the limbo of the "has-beens."

ROOM AND BOARD — By Gene Ahern

—HOW LOOK, BOSS,—YOU MANAGE ME FOR BASEBALL—BUT LEY OFF TH' WILD PUBLICITY STUNTS!—HOME OF YOUR HOP-FIRE SMOKE OF MAKING ME COME DOWN FROM HEAVEN, IN A TERRACHUTE!—JUST KEEP'D AROUND THAT I'M A TOUGH GUARD!—TELL 'EM I LIKE POISON IVY FOR SALAD—AN' SAY THAT I MANICURE MY NAILS ON AN ANVIL!—AN THEY LOVE THAT GORILLA TOUCH!
VERY WELL, BOMBER! JUST AFTER YOU LEFT ME, I WAS TALKING WITH MY FRIEND, ALFRED MOX, THE RECORDER OF A LODGE, AND HE SAID THEY HAVE A WRESTLER FOR THEIR SMOKERS, WHO CAN TIE YOU IN A DAISY CHAIN!—WILL YOU MEET HIM?
AND IT WAS FOR #25! JUDGE! NOT #250

That football is cutting baseball in schoolboy ranks was evident when Newburyport and Saugus High held a grid scrimmage in the Saugus Stadium. The schoolboys take their football serious these days, judging from the drive and enthusiasm shown at this time of year.

adhered to all the laws of health and hygiene. He doesn't smoke! He doesn't go to the movies lest he dim his sight! He eschews boisterous waters, late hours and, in short, physical liscence of every kind! But at 35 he has crossed his equator.

And there was Babe Ruth, who violated every physical law known to man, who had a pair of sandpaper legs under a beer-barrel body—a disproportioned giant who should have worn himself ragged in middle youth. In fact I recall hearing Tris Speaker warn the world in 1921 that Ruth would collapse within four years. "His legs will go" prophesied Tris. But legs, torso, stomach, and eyes lasted until 1935, when Babe resigned in a bluster of rage from Judge Fuchs' collection of oddities known as the Braves.

Another thing, first base is generally called "the old man's home" in baseball. The chores aren't arduous! There's very little sidewise and back! The work is mostly stationary! The answer probably is that Lou has fallen victim to his vanity and a desire to hang up an iron man record which will never be equalled.

He has played with carbuncles, with broken bones, with lumbago, with a slight concussion, with various illnesses, when caution dictated that a day in bed or on the bench would have prolonged his athletic life. For the history of "iron men" in baseball is one of swift and sudden ending. Everett Scott and Joe Sewell were examples. Both ended their never-miss-a-game strings in Boston, Everett being yanked from the lineup by the late Miller Huggins and Joe being stricken with pneumonia. They were 34 and 33 respectively. Will the Boston jinx repeat?

Olin, McCoy Reinstated

MONTREAL, April 27 (AP)—Bob Olin, former world's light heavyweight boxing champion, and Al McCoy of Boston, were reinstated by the Montreal Athletic Commission after a five-month suspension for a dual-contract misunderstanding.

Olin's manager, Harold Scadren, and McCoy's manager, Bill Brennan, and second, Ray Arcell, also were re-instated.
